1848 Plot No 32 of the Buxton Tithe Map of 1848 shows the building was owned by John Capel - The Theatre - 6 Perches.

1851 The Theatre was probably refurbished as lots of bills had been presented for payment in connection with the building.

30 Sept 1854 John Blunt & Company were paid £3-8- 9d for pulling down the theatre at the Shakespeare Inn The Broad Walk (1830 (Approx.) - 1854

14 October 1854 Edward Yeomans was also paid for the same job, receiving £5-3-0d. It was possibly done because John Capel (or Caple) owed his land lord Lady Day £20-00-0d

1863 The Railway arrived in Buxton.

December 1869 The BUXTON IMPROVEMENTS COMPANY was formed with the objective of adding to the attractions and increase the prosperity of Buxton.

11 May 1871 The Pavilion Gardens was opened. It was planted by landscape gardener Edward Milner. The actual Pavilion was opened from the second week in August.

THEATRE ROYAL, SPRINGGARDENS

7 October 1871 An advert appeared in the local Buxton Advertiser:

Theatre Royal, SpringGardens, Buxton.

Under the management of Mr Henry Mandeville.

Licensed to play pieces of the Dramatic Authors.

This theatre being now duly licensed according to Act of Parliament, will

OPEN FOR THE SEASON TONIGHT,

with a full and efficient company with

DRAMA, COMEDY and FARCE.

Stage Manager Mr J Rooke.

Reserved stalls 2s Pit stalls 1s Area 6d

Children in arms one guinea.

The above referred to the old Chapel in SpringGardens which had been converted into a theatre.

However this venture was short lived as the Advertiser wrote on the 28 October 1871:

The Manager of the little theatre in Spring Gardens - Mr Manderville - "Skedaddled" on Tuesday last, with everything, as the phrase goes, "that he could lay his hands on", leaving the poor players without their salaries, and the landlord and everybody else connected with the establishment, unsatisfied.

1876 In August this year "The Concert Hall" was opened. It was designed by Buxton Architect R.R. Duke.

EXTRA NEWS a central spire and part of the pavilion designed by Edward Milner was destroyed by fire in June 1983 and rebuilt in 1984.

1889 J. L Toole (1830 -1906) (Actor Manager and friend of Sir Henry Irving) Opened the PAVILION THEATRE (Later called the Playhouse) in August 1889. It was situated next to the Pavilion on St John's Road. The directors of the BUXTON IMPROVEMENTS COMPANY had decided to provide various other places of entertainment dispute the objections of its chairman Dr Robertson who considered the word "Theatre" to be in the same contest as the words "Eternal damnation". Originally the stage was called "The ENTERTAINMENT STAGE" but soon changed to the Pavilion theatre.

After the start of the theatrical involvement of the BUXTON IMPROVEMENTS COMPANY they had to change their articles and agreements. The company was renamed THE BUXTON GARDENS

COMPANY. The people of Buxton complained about this form of entertainment being staged in the town via letters in the local press. The company sill made money on the venture and decided to change the name of the theatre a number of times to keep up with trends and presumably to divert bad press, as soon as it became too much for the company they decided on a new name. Firstly it changed to the "NEW THEATRE" then the "Pavilion Theatre" and when the Opera House was built it changed again to the "OLD THEATRE". Eventually the theatre changed into a cinema and was called the HIPPODROME. In 1935 after the Opera house had taken over duties of the Cinema it was again renamed THE PLAYHOUSE and was used for Music & Drama festivals eventually becoming the home of the Buxton Repertory Company. From 1945 until 1979 the theatre provided the town with seasons of live entertainment with well-known artists and local performers. By the 1990's it was called the "PAXTON SUITE".

Anthony Hawtrey (Son of Sir Charles H Hawtrey (1858 - 1923) brought many companies to Buxton from its base at the Embassy Theatre, London.

OTHERS WHO HAVE APPEARED HERE;

Shaun Sutton (BBC Tv Head of Shakespeare productions - 1990's?), Barbara Leslie (Married Shaun Sutton), Joan Sanderson, Patrick Cargill, Nigel Hawthorne, Gwen Watford, Richard Bebb, Mary Mackenzie and Joss Ackland.

Charles Vance also visited the theatre with his company in the 1960's and now returns with his major productions this time however to the OPERA HOUSE.

BUXTON OPERA HOUSE

Cornishman John Willoughby (1838- 1916), was the Secretary of the Buxton Gardens Company and General Manager of the PavilionGardens and Chairman of the Buxton School Board. He had also been chairman of Buxton Urban District Council and achurchwarden along with other offices in the Spa of the Peak.

to build a new theatre in the town.

First Manager of the Opera House Arthur Willoughby (1872 -1944) succeeded his father, John as Secretary of the BUXTON GARDENS COMPANY.

The theatre was designed by Frank Matcham (1854- 1920) (See Frank Matcham file)

FROM "THE ERA" 12 October 1901

Mr Frank Matcham, the well known theatrical architect, has returned from his trip through America. In his five weeks' absence from London he has visited New York, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Philadelphia, and other towns, and has seen nearly all the principle theatres. His opinion is that there is little to learn from our American cousins in the matter of design and construction of places of amusement, and that certain means of exit employed in the American buildings would certainly not meet with the approval of our London County Council. At the same time there is much to be admired in the order of cleanliness of the buildings, and the attention given to patrons of the theatres as regards their comfort and convenience. Mr Matcham is busily engaged in getting the large and handsome new Empire Palace at Hackney completed for opening next month; also the new Theatre Royal, Newcastle, and the New Hippodrome (the altered Olympia) in that city ready to open at Christmas. The Newcastle Empire is also to be pulled down, and a fine music hall erected on the site and adjoining property from Matcham's designs. Mr Matcham's plans for the new theatre in Buxton have also been approved by the authorities, and his plans for the new Glasgow theatre for Mr Fred Wyndham are now before the Dean of Guild Court.

FRANK MATCHAM (1854-1920)

He was engaged by John Willoughby (1838- 1916), Secretary of the Buxton Gardens Company and General Manager of the PavilionGardens to build a new theatre in the town.

Trained under Jethro T Robinson, consulting architect to the Lord Chamberlain and designer of the Old Vic.

In 1877 Frank married Robinson's daughter taking over his father in laws work when he died in 1878. Buxton's new theatre cost £25,000

10 January 1903 The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire visited the town along with Miss Muriel Wilson, to inspect the building progress of the Opera House.

April 1903 The scaffolding was removed from the building.

25 April 1903 REPORT

Acting on the advice of their architect, Mr Frank Matcham, of London, the directors of the Gardens Company resolved to abandon all idea of altering their present Theatre, but to utilise this for a a portion of a new scheme to be eventually carried out by him in improving the Gardens and the Pavilion buildings.

The following is a description of the Opera House as it will be when completed:-

The old entrance and reading rooms have been removed, and on the site has been erected a handsome stone building with a frontage of about 73 feet to The Square, and a return front of 164 feet towards St John's Road.

The side next to the Gardens is not much in evidence as the wall of the Theatre forms one side of the new glass and iron corridor to the Pavilion, which is approached from the grand entrance to the Gardens, the new facade is on an angle with the front of the theatre, and is flanked by two dwarf stone towers with coloured glass domed roofs, and in the centre is the entrance containing the turnstiles and offices. A glass and iron shelter will protect the visitors on alighting from their carriages, and the whole forms a very imposing building, being designed in conjunction with the Theatre facade.

The exit doors to the building have the new Brigg's patent alarm exit bolts which prevent the doors being opened from the outside. The principle entrance had mahogany doors with glass top half which open to a marble entrance hall. The Grand staircase is made of Marble also with a rich Turkey carpet down the middle.

The walls of the auditorium are covered in white Carrara marble with plinths and bases made of Emperors red marble.

The floors are inlaid mosaic. The ceiling is richly carved plaster work with an artistic panel in the centre representing lyrical poetry.

This splendid building will delight all who see it and is a tribute to the work of Frank Marcham. (For a full description read "Theatre in the Hills" by Ros McCoola)

30 May 1903 The Advertiser reported that The New Opera House licence, Drinks Licence Refused, Theatrical Licence Granted. this lack of a drinks licence stayed with the theatre until 1928 (A Quarter of a Century late). Mr Batty of Manchester represented a number of people as their solicitor opposing the drinks licence. On his death on the 12 December 1926 the opposition dropped and thus when it was next reviewed it was granted in 1928.

FRANK MATCHAM 30 May 1903 at an open day for the public to view the theatre.

At the opening of the theatre Frank Matcham declared that the new theatre would "conduce very much to the enjoyment of the visitors who came there, and place Buxton in the highest ranks of watering-places".

The Buxton Corporation acquired the Pavilion Gardens & properties owned by the Gardens company.

January 1928 The theatre closed for a week while it was being re-seated.

This new management didn't inspire companies to appear at the theatre and the standard started to drop. There was pressure from the management to change to showing Sound Pictures but the locals felt this would cut jobs and would not catch on so the theatre showed silent movies until finally they had to give in and a sound system was installed in 1932.

1932 Sound system installed for films.

1937 The Opera House started hosting the FESTIVAL.

31 July 1936 Daily Despatch THE START OF THE FESTIVAL

Returning from a visit to the Malvern Festival in Worcestershire Mr R.J. Finnemore asked the question "What about it Buxton?". This was not the first time the idea had arisen, back in 1930 it had first been mooted but it was the catalyst that started the wheels in motion. The dates of 30th August to the 18th September 1937 were set for the festival. The weeks would include three plays among the events. Miss Lilian Baylis CH, MA, Oxon(Hon), LLD Birm(Hon) (1874 -1937) saw the potential of the festival " We all love the place, the air is a tonic, and if audiences are as the scenery there can be no doubt about the success of the festival" (Miss Baylis was the manager of the Old Vic Company). The three plays announced for the first festival were Pygmalion (Bernard Shaw), Ghosts (Ibsen), and Measure for Measure (William Shakespeare) . The company hired to perform these plays included

Robert Morley, Stephen Murray, Diana Wynyard, Mark Dignam, Jay Laurier, Marie Ney, Emyln Willimas, Jean Cadell & Sylvia Coleridge.

Just before the start of PYGMALION the town suffered an electricity blackout but as the manager of the theatre Captain F.S. Holmes went on stage to apologise the lights came back on.

16,167 people attended the first festival giving the committee £400 profit.

Two months after the festival on Thursday 25 November 1937 Lilian Baylis died. Her influence on the festival was so great that in September 1939 a plaque was placed in the Opera House in memory of the lady. It was unveiled by the actor Robert Donat.

Frank Tickle as a Gravedigger

EXTRA INFO

The 1938 festival had a new lighting system installed in the theatre. The new Strand Electric Grand Master lighting board (Still in use in 1979) replaced the old "Sunlight" Gas Panel (Moved to the gallery in 1979 for display) that had been used up until this point.

THE DAY WAR BROKE OUT

On the 3 September the show was cancelled as War broke out and all places of entertainment were closed. dispute putting up a good argument that Buxton was away from any threat the Opera House stayed closed until the 9 September when all the theatres reopened.

THE GOOD NATURED MAN (Eventually opened on the 11 September)

by Oliver Goldsmith
Director Tyrone Guthrie

In 1940 1941 & 1942 the Old Vic company continued to perform at the Buxton festival no mean achievement during the war years.

The 1941 company included Sybil Thorndike & Lewis Casson in the play "Medea" by Euripides 1942 Included Bernard Miles as Three Shakespeare plays "Othello", "Merry Wives of Windsor" & the "Merchant of Venice".

With the end of the war it brought its own damage to the theatre. Now with peeling paint and leaking roof the theatre was in a bad way. Very little was done to stop this downward spiral. On the 21 October 1976 the theatre was closed to assess the damage. At the time the BUXTON AND HIGH PEAK ENTERTAINMENT'S LTD (Part of the Hutchinson Leisure group of Burnley) held the Opera house on Lease from the High Peak Borough Council. After assessing the damage they decided not to spend any money on the building as their lease ran out in 1981 and they could not justify the cost. On the 3 April 1977 the theatre reopened with the film "King Kong".

Visiting Buxton was a gentleman called Malcolm Fraser who on seeing the words Opera House decided that he would like to stage some opera's at the theatre. He persuaded the High Peak Borough Council to let him see the building and decided that it was in need of a little help. Convincing BUXTON AND HIGH PEAK ENTERTAINMENT'S LTD to give up the rest of their lease a public appeal was started to raise funds for renovating the theatre. One cheque even came from Italy to help with the fund (Dates 21 March 1978).

Two boards were formed to look after the needs of the theatre, the BUXTON OPERA HOUSE TRUST (Chairman Mrs Margaret Millican) and the BUXTON FESTIVAL (Chairman David Rigby). With money flowing in work started in January 1979. With the designs by Arup Associates and work by Bovis they started restoring the theatre to the designs of Frank Matcham, changing the colour scheme to match the curtains, getting carpets made to 1903 designs by Firths who brought back into commission a 1907 loom to copy some old carpet found in one of the boxes. They also made adjustments to the stage with the introduction of a larger orchestra pit and constructing a green room back stage for the actors.

As the theatre had one of only three surviving "Sunburners" it was essential that during the restoration this was put into working order and for it to be converted to using North Sea Gas.

The total cost for the full restoration was £506,663.00. Its completion was marked by the first "International Arts Festival" from the 30 July to the 12 August 1979.

In December 1983 the High Peak Borough Council officially accepted responsibility for the theatre and the trust was renamed "THE HIGH PEAK THEATRE TRUST LTD".

Since then the theatre has appeared on Television with productions of "Lost Empires" (Granada Tv) , "The Bretts"(Becoming the Princess theatre for the production by Central Tv) , and "After the War".

In 1987 Sir Anthony Quayle was persuaded to open his production of "King Lear" at Buxton.

1988 Shirley Ann Field starred in ALADDIN flying from her home in Hollywood to play the part.

THEATRE CLOSED BY GOVERNMENT

Since the end of 2019 there has been a Coronavirus outbreak around the world.

On Monday the 16th March 2020 the Government advised that all contact with other people should be avoided and advised the closure of theatres, concert venues, restaurants, pubs etc. and so the Theatre decided that all their shows would be suspended until further notice.
